Dear Mr. Randall:

Thank you for providing such excellent service. I am not a letter writer nor am I one to hand out compliments easily but your passion in helping me with my problems made me sit down and write you.

I was so frustrated with trying to get my compensation paperwork into the VA I had just about given up until I met you. You seemed so confident that you could assist and get it done, I decided to give it one more try. I thought you would meet with me once, maybe twice and then be gone. You surprised me by following –up consistently. You asked specific questions. When you met me at the VA the last time I was indebted to you for life. Then I found out you were assisting me for free, I was blown away. No one has ever been that kind or considerate to me. I may not get all I feel I deserve but it won't be your fault. I don't know how to ever repay you.

Thank you again for your thoughtfulness. If there is ever anything I can do for you, just let me know.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "William G. Ford", with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.
